

Aluminum Cooling Radiator

This high-efficiency aluminum radiator is designed for optimal heat dissipation. Its multi-section design increases surface area and enhances thermal performance.

Overview

High-Efficiency Thermal Management

This aluminum cooling radiator is engineered for superior heat dissipation in demanding heating applications. Its multi-section construction maximizes surface area, ensuring efficient thermal performance and reliable operation. Built from a robust aluminum alloy, the unit offers excellent corrosion resistance and long-term durability for professional installations.

Technical Specifications

Key Performance Metrics

11 H

Section Count

Material	Aluminum Alloy
Design Features	Multi-section design, High-efficiency, Corrosion resistant