

Automotive Lead-Acid Battery

Automotive batteries are designed for starting, lighting, and ignition systems. These batteries typically operate at 12V and feature lead-acid construction with multiple cells.

