

Automotive TB Oil Seal

This TB oil seal is designed for automotive use within engine systems. It delivers a strong barrier against the leakage of lubricants and intrusion of contaminants.

Product Overview

High-Performance TB Oil Seal

This TB oil seal is engineered for demanding automotive applications, providing superior sealing capabilities to effectively prevent the leakage of lubricants and contaminants. Its durable construction ensures long-lasting performance and reliability even under extreme operating conditions. It serves as an essential component for maintaining optimal vehicle performance and extending the lifespan of critical machinery, including engines, transmissions, and axles.

Application Details

Industry Standard

OEM Compatible

Primary Applications

Engines, Transmissions, Axles, General Machinery