

Portable Computing Device

This is a portable computing device, also known as a laptop computer. It is designed for mobile use, integrating a screen, keyboard, and trackpad into a single, battery-powered unit.

Overview

Professional Video Intercom System

This advanced video intercom system provides robust security and communication capabilities for residential or commercial properties. Featuring a high-quality color display, it allows for clear visual confirmation of visitors and convenient remote access control. The system supports multiple door connections and includes integrated features for recording, playback, and volume management to ensure seamless operation.

Key Features

Core Functionality

- Visual visitor confirmation via color display
- Remote door release capabilities
- Multi-door connection support
- Integrated recording and playback
- Time display functionality

User Interface

Control Interface

Door Access Control, Volume Adjustment, Intercom/Music Mode, Monitoring Function, Talk/Stop Control

Technical Specifications

System Metrics

2 Doors

Supported Door Connections