

RG6 Coaxial Jumper Cable

The RG6 jumper cable ensures good signal reception. It is used for connecting cable television, satellite television, and cable modems.

ADDITIONAL IMAGES

Product Overview

RG6 Coaxial Jumper Cable

This RG6 jumper cable is engineered for reliable signal transmission in professional telecommunications and residential connectivity environments. Designed for versatility, it supports CATV, satellite television, and cable modem installations with ease. The assembly features robust braided shielding to minimize interference, ensuring consistent signal integrity for your communication network.

Technical Features

Primary Applications	CATV, Satellite TV, Cable Modems
Connector Type	F-connector
Shielding	Braided shielding

Physical Attributes

Recommended Use

Indoor Use

Cable Jacket Color	Red
--------------------	-----