

Video Conference Phone with Handset

This video phone has a built-in display screen and camera for video conferencing. The device incorporates a standard telephone handset and keypad for traditional phone calls, along with additional buttons for video call functions.

Overview

Professional Video Conferencing Solution

The STV-2001 is a versatile video conference phone designed to bridge the gap between traditional telephony and modern visual communication. Featuring a built-in display screen and an integrated camera, this device enables real-time video interaction alongside standard voice calls. It provides a reliable and intuitive interface for professional environments, ensuring seamless connectivity for remote collaboration.

Technical Specifications

Input Interface

- Physical telephone handset
- Tactile numeric keypad
- Dedicated video function buttons

Model Number	STV-2001
Communication Modes	Voice Calls, Video Conferencing

Key Features

Integrated Hardware

Built-in Display Screen • Integrated Video Camera • Standard Handset